COURSE OUTCOMES

UPON COMPLETION OF THE PROGRAMME ONE SHOULD BE ABLE TO...

01

Respiratory nursing is a growing specialty and certified nurses often have better career prospects. They are qualified to work in specialized areas such as intensive care units (ICUs), pulmonary clinics, emergency departments, and respiratory therapy departments.

02

Nurses with a respiratory care certification are better prepared to manage emergencies such as acute asthma exacerbations, COPD flare-ups, or respiratory failure. Their ability to perform procedures like airway suctioning, administer bronchodilators, and manage mechanical ventilation fosters confidence in high-pressure situations.

03

Nurses in respiratory care often collaborate with pulmonologists, respiratory therapists, and other healthcare professionals. This certification enhances a nurse's ability to communicate effectively within interdisciplinary teams, facilitating coordinated, high-quality care.

04

The certification includes training on the latest technologies and techniques in ventilator management and oxygen therapy, both of which are critical for patients with severe respiratory disorders.
